LGBTQ2+ Oral F	History Digital	Collaborator
----------------	-----------------	--------------

Video Log Form

 Name of Interviewee:
 Jamison Green

 Name of Video Logger:
 Evan Taylor

 Interview date:
 5-Mas-20

Description/Topic of clip	Start time	Starting language or Quote	End time	Ending language	Notes, if any
Jamison on managing and engaging change.	0:08:30	"As a manager myself when I was managing in corporate"		"that's not why the organization began."
Talking to another board member about revising the standards of care.	0:16:09		0:16:20	"And I said, look, if you have to write a letter to explain what the standards mean that means the standards need to be rewritten. No one should have to require a letter explaining it."
Turking to direction bound member about revising the standards of care.	0.10.03		0.10.20	Elimina Landy rook, in you more to write a retter to explain what the authority mean that means are authority need to be rewritten. No one around more to require a retter explaining in
Jamison talks about wanting to be a writer and why it's so important in activism.	0:27:23		0:29:19	"But I could change the world."
Jamison talks about how his gender nonconformity as a child gave him skills to create change as an activist.	0:34:36	"I also think a lot comes from my own physical experience in the world"	0:35:38	"good to check out the lay of the land."
Jamison discusses how he sees the world changing in 20 years.	1:12:41		1:15:39	"everybody goes all haywire."
Jamison on communication.	1:27:37	"Exactly. I think the whole point of what we do as human beings is communicate"	1:27:44
Legacy question	1:37:52	"Being kind and changing the world. And empowering other people"
•
			1		