Description/Topic of clip	Start time	Starting language or Quote	End time	Ending language	Notes, if any
Lin talks about Advocacy vs. activism and her location as a strengths based clinician.	0:10:28	"I guess it depends on how one would define activism..."	0:15:24	"...I'm a clinician who focuses on strengths and it's not just trans people."
Lin talks about her first trans client	0:16:28	"I have never seen trans people as sick..."
Lin talks about the early standards of care, and Paul Walker.	0:20:52	"I knew the people who wrote the first standards of care..."	0:22:56	"...he was kind of my mentor."
Lin talks about changes she has seen in trans community over time.	0:25:12	"Mainly that I think that the times have changed..."	0:28:19	"...I see a lot more non binary people."
Lin talks about the connection between trauma and attachment and gender identity.	0:36:46	"I think that is useful to for a clinician to have training in..."	0:44:20	"...with whatever you come into the world with."
Talks about Lou Sullivan	0:46:02	"You've probably heard of Lou Sullivan..."	0:47:24	"...and Lou was sort of at the centre of it."
Lin talks about Feminism and transition options.	0:50:12	"That is one that has really changed..."	0:53:03	"...You know, again, because of criticism from the outside world."
Watching early Surgeries	0:56:48	"Within one year, I watched two surgeries: one through the Stanford program and one in a garage on Lombard Street."	0:56:58
Talks about helping Lou Sullivan get surgery.	0:58:42	"Right and Lou is an example..."	1:01:28	"...A lot of people know each other."
Talks about her work and closeness with Paul Walker.	1:01:45	"I was very, very close to Paul..."	1:14:34	"...and that was it, because everybody was dead, right."
Lin discusses women's spaces and trans belonging.	1:40:01	"I mean, the hurt and pain of not being accepted into women's space..."	1:44:32	"...language has changed. But the feelings - I'm not sure that's different."
Lin talks about what clinicians needs to know about trans people and attachment.	1:47:10	"But I would want them to realize that as clinicians..."	1:52:09	"...you're supposed to act my version of a trans person and that's it."
